For young nano scientists!

For a greener future!

For you to present your cutting edge technology!

16th International NAnoScience CONference

INASCON is an annual conference organized by students for students and will take place in Munich, Germany with 150 participants expected.

Many renowned speakers are already confirmed, including two nobel prize winners.

This years' motto "Nano Input – Macro Impact: Energy Materials for a Sustainable Future" of INASCON2022 combines chemical, physical, biological and technological research on nanoscale materials to create innovative ideas and solutions for a greener future.

INASCON unites young nano-scientists in their Master studies and PhDs from around the world, allowing them to exchange ideas and form connections in interdisciplinary nanoscience topics.

The program includes talks of prominent researchers as well as students in the categories Intelligent Storage Materials, Photo- & Electrocatalysis, Photovoltaics & Optoelectronics and Nano-Biophysics, as well as poster sessions, social events, a company fair and interactive workshops.
